Kaleb's role model is his brother Kyle because he is a hard worker. When Kaleb grows up he wants to play in NBA league because he loves basketball. Ms. Burleson says, "We talk about student growth, and to have watched this young man from his freshman to junior year has been amazing. Not only is he showcasing his athletic skills he is excelling in the classroom (especially physics)."

N'Kenge Ware has been chosen for Rider of the Week by Doug Moore. Her favorite movie is The Blind Side and for fun she likes to watch movies, spend time with her family, and hang out with her friends. N'Kenge's role model is her mother because she is very ambitious and striving person. She is the epitome of phenomenal. When she grows she wants to be a psychologist. I would like dot be a psychologist because she really loves to give people advice. Mr. Moore says, "N'Kenge is a very good. She has an excellent sense of humor and a great personality. For me, the most important thing is her attitude in class she does what you want every student to do - she tries her best to understand and asks questions when she doesn't."
