

Riders of the Week

January 19 – January 22

Fatima

Letavious

Ms. Hroncich has chosen Letavious Falcon for Rider of the Week. He enjoys playing tag with his little sister and reading the book Hook because the main character protects people and is funny. His role model is his assistant principal because he protects him and is funny. Letavious really wants to grow up to work in the oil field industry to help keep equipment safe. Letavious's teacher says he is "the most intrinsically kind and polite 8-year-old I have every known! He is always considerate of his classmates and his teachers. Letavious puts forth an incredible amount of effort in everything he does. Giving up on something is not an option for him. He is a super star at CES because he is an incredible role model for both his peers and even adults!"

Ms. Cherry has chosen Fatima Cortez for Rider of the Week. Fatima loves to play tag. Her favorite book is Rose Robot Cleans Up because it is about recycling, and Rose makes new things with recycled items. Her role model is her teacher because she helps Fatima learn and she is always nice to her. Fatima wants to become a veterinarian when she grows up because she loves to take care of animals. Fatima's teacher says, "I know I can always depend on Fatima to make good choices and do a wonderful job at anything she does! Fatima is an awesome example of what a CES student should be. She loves to learn and is always sweet and kind to others. She stays on task, participates in class, and does her absolute best every day. These are just a few reasons why Fatima is a super star at CES!"
