

Riders of the Week

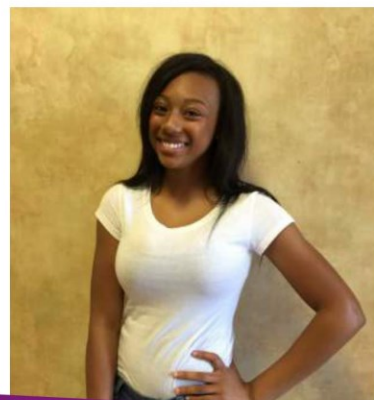

March 21 – March 25

Kameron Saige Emerson

Kameron Emerson has been chosen for Rider of the Week by Mary Grisby. Kameron loves to play video games, practice fire dancing, and do acrobatics with his brothers and sister. His role models are his mother and father because they had bad childhoods and they wanted to make themselves better for their children. When Kameron graduates, he plans on becoming a truck driver like his father because he makes good money and provides for his family so they can eat, have clothes, and have a roof over their heads. They have set a good example, and are determined to give their children a better future. Kameron's favorite movie is Big Hero 6 and his favorite book is The Hunger Games. Mrs. Grisby says, "He is very culturally educated. He is Interested in all things that attribute to a persons' way of thinking."

Esther Mergerson has also been chosen for Rider of the Week. Her favorite movie is A Walk to Remember and she loves to eat, sleep, cheer, be on social media, travel, shop, and pray. Her role model is her mother because she is one of the strongest people I know, and she has an amazing relationship with Christ. Esther like to be an attorney and study psychology when she grows up, because she has been interested in those two things her entire life. Mrs. Grisby says, "She is so willing to be educated (not just to learn). So Refreshing. She has the greatest, most contagious can-do attitude."
