

Riders of the Week

February 16 – February 19

JaKayla Weathered

Mr. Greg Rowe has chosen JaKayla Weathered for Rider of the Week. For fun, JaKayla enjoys playing basketball with her brother, hanging with her family, hanging out with friends, and playing on game systems. Her favorite movie is War Room. JaKayla's role models are her family members because they support her in everything they do. JaKayla wants to be in the WMBA because she enjoys playing basketball and she is pushing herself hard to make it there. Mr. Rowe says JaKayla "is a hard-working and polite student. She is a joy to have in class. I believe she is a campus leader through her example in the classroom."

Mr. Rowe has also chosen Alec Dykes for Rider of the Week. Alec likes to play sports and read his favorite book, Maze Runner. When Alec grows up, he plans on becoming a coach because he wants to be involved in sports throughout his life. Julian Edelman is his role model because "he is a short receiver who went from quarterback to a receiver and still went pro." Mr. Rowe says "Alec is respectful and puts out maximum effort, even when the material gets tough. He brings the same determination to the classroom as he does the field and the court."

Jace Covington

Jace Covington has also been chosen by Greg Rowe. Jace loves to go outside and play basketball with his friends. He also likes to go paint balling and playing baseball with his brother. His father is his role model because he was always pushing Jace to do the right thing and try his best. He was a hardworking Christian man who taught Jace everything he needs to know. When Jace grows up, he plans on becoming a professional basketball player because he says it is fun and players make a lot of money. In addition to basketball, Jace would like to be a stock broker and investor. Mr. Rowe chose Jace because he gives maximum effort in the classroom and is helpful to his classmates in a variety of settings. He is a pleasure to have in class."
